Green Bay Packaging Fremont Celebrates 50 Years of Excellence

FREMONT, OH – March 12, 2015 – Green Bay Packaging (GBP) is celebrating the 50th anniversary of its Fremont Division. Founded on March 9th, 1965, the facility continues to operate under its original guiding principles of offering exceptional service, outstanding quality and unique designs. With a clear focus on the customer, the Fremont team continually improves productivity with lean manufacturing practices and experienced, dedicated workers that enable the company to be more nimble and responsive to customer needs.

"The legacy of the Fremont Division is truly the dedication of its people. The longevity of our work force and their commitment to our customer base has been the hallmark Fremont's success over the past five decades," expresses Paul Martin, Vice President and General Manager, Fremont Division. "Coupled with Green Bay Packaging's continued investment in technology and equipment our division is well positioned to serve this region and our customers for the next fifty years!"

From its roots as a family business, the Fremont Division has maintained its commitment to innovation and quality. Successful adaptation to an ever-changing market has enabled the team to continually focus on advancing technologies, resulting in a steadily growing production capacity and a strong customer portfolio.

"While the Fremont Division has grown significantly since it opened in 1965, we have been able to incorporate our past heritage and culture as a family-run business while also focusing on what it takes to be a successful contributor," stated Bryan Hollenbach, Executive Vice President of Green Bay Packaging. "Today, Fremont is a key strategic facility for GBP thanks, in large part, to dedicated customers and team members, including some who have been with us through most of this 50 year journey."
